

HARDING, WILSON, TAFT INVITED TO ARLINGTON

Secretary of War Weeks Announces Official List of Guests.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The names of Woodrow Wilson and William Howard Taft, as ex-presidents of the United States, have been placed next to that of President Harding on the list of invited guests to the ceremonies at Arlington November 11, when the American unknown dead will be honored by the nation.

Other distinguished guests announced today by Secretary Weeks include Vice-President Coolidge, the justices of the Supreme Court, members of President Harding's Cabinet, congressional leaders, members of the diplomatic corps, delegates to the limitation of armament conference, foreign military officers of high rank, the Governor of the State, the heads of veterans' organizations and representatives of the American Red Cross and other public societies.

Secretary Weeks announced that about 400 congressional medals of honor men in the United States would be invited provided Congress appropriated sufficient funds for their transportation to Washington and return home.

Because of the large number of official guests, which the government must invite, including those coming to the armament conference and members of Congress, it was said, there would remain within the amphitheater few, if any, seats for the general public. The seating capacity of the theater is limited to 5,200, and these will be almost wholly required for official government representatives and their guests.
